

About light

From student decided to find out how the sap, went up the xylema. The explanations in Natural Sciences work for elevations below 10 meters, the millions of trees that exist in the forests of the planet reach 120 high lacked it. They never solved the doubt there was no need because everything works in life.

With time and work he forgot about the matter, there were other topics that needed attention. Years later, traveling by car, he had an accident and became unconscious. Without damage to the spine and the brain was a matter of time before opened his eyes and walked again what he did after eight days in a hospital connected to a machine. The accident had sequels that amnesia provoke him, and looking for his memories that concern came to mind and decided to investigate.

Then he designed the Coel test. (by its acronym in Spanish Colector de electrones) where what happens in nature is imitated with vegetable leaves, discovering that the sun emits something that was always considered part of the atom; electrons, the high temperature that maintains generates photons and when they go through the atmosphere they recover their identity, that is why the light behaves as a body, wave, magnetic wave or electromagnetic and reflection, refraction and diffraction. The photons transport it and how they have the same polarity repelly occurring the red running observed by the astronomer Edwin Hubble. That is, the universe moves away from infinity to infinity.

Oersted discovered that his presence alters the magnetic field, and if the light is curved when he brushes a planet, it means that it is electricity.

All bodies lose electrons that are attracted by the floor so that gravity is magnetic attraction and we can generate it anywhere where it is necessary.

The stars how the sun manufactures electrons that when they reach planets similar to Earth can harbor life as we know it. The Creator left us to populate the other solar systems because we know these principles and gave us intelligence so that they can be applied.

We can starting to reach Moon in seconds and Mars in hours.

Someone began writing because the written language was invented. Man will never be extinguished because he has a genetic code that differentiates him from women. We just have to take care that always be like this and never disappear. Everything expressed is the result of experiments that can be repeated. As evidence, I leave links that we can read in any language.
